We continue our reading of The Sacrament of Charity Sacramentum Caritatis ON THE EUCHARIST AS THE SOURCE AND SUMMIT OF THE CHURCH'S LIFE AND MISSION. In this third and final part, the Holy Father writes about the Eucharist, a Mystery to be lived. "71. Christianity's new worship includes and transfigures every aspect of life: "Whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God" (1 Cor 10:31). Christians, in all their actions, are called to offer true worship to God. Here the intrinsically eucharistic nature of Christian life begins to take shape. The Eucharist, since it embraces the concrete, everyday existence of the believer, makes possible, day by day, the progressive transfiguration of all those called by grace to reflect the image of the Son of God (cf. Rom 8:29ff.). There is nothing authentically human – our thoughts and affections, our words and deeds - that does not find in the sacrament of the Eucharist the form it needs to be lived to the full. Here we can see the full human import of the radical newness brought by Christ in the Eucharist: the worship of God in our lives cannot be relegated to something private and individual, but tends by its nature to permeate every aspect of our existence. Worship pleasing to God thus becomes a new way of living our whole life, each particular moment of which is lifted up, since it is lived as part of a relationship with Christ and as an offering to God. The glory of God is the living man (cf. 1 Cor 10:31). And the life of man is the vision of God. (Cf. Saint Irenaeus)"

Living a Catholic Life: What Is Conscience? Two extremes seem to have emerged in the modern con text. On the one hand, conscience has assumed the character of a simple subjective certainty, an absolute infallibility in the stand of the individual with regard to one or another moral issue (Con science and Truth, 1). On the other hand, in the face of a profusion of authorities, conscience has tended to produce a quagmire of moral puzzlement and quandary. Shakespeare immortalized the tendency of conscience to produce moral paralysis: "Thus conscience doth make cowards of us all: / And thus the native hue of resolution / Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought; / And enterprises of great pith and moment / With this regard, their currents turn awry, / And lose the name of action" (Hamlet, 3.1). Here conscience is a hindrance to action, an excess of thinking that leads to not doing something. to be continued next week.

"Living a Catholic Life" is a collaboration between dioceses, parishes, Knights of Columbus councils, grassroots organizations, and The National Catholic Bioethics Center to educate the laity on principles of the moral life and their application This column was adapted from D. Beauregard, "What Is Conscience Anyway?," Ethics & Medics 21.1 (January 1996).

Bible Study not too late to join! This Fall I invite you to join me in learning more about the Psalms in a course taught by Vern Steiner of the Emmaus Institute: Encountering the Heart of God in the Psalms. "As biblical poetry, the Psalms are both the word of God to his people (revealing his person and program) and the words of people to their God (expressing their prayers and praises)." We will meet in Hasting's St. Cecilia's Centennial Hall on Monday nights 7pm-8:30pm. We will not meet on Monday September 2 (Labor Day) so our next class is Monday September 9 and we will plan to meet all the following Mondays until Nov. 18. You can sign up for this free course at https://emmausinstitute.net/courses/details/encountering-the-heart-of-god-in-the-psalms (that way if you can't make every Monday, you can catch up at home) Hope you can join!

Memorial for the Unborn: Saturday, September 14th at 9 AM at the site of the Unborn Babies Memorial at Parkview Cemetery, 1246 N Elm, Hastings, Nebraska there will be a memorial service for the unborn. This event is in conjunction with the National Day of Remembrance for Unborn Aborted babies held across the United States. Solemn vigils will be held throughout the United States to commemorate the more than 65 million babies who have lost their lives to legal abortion since 1973, and to remind our society of the humanity of the unborn child. Our guest speakers, Senator Steve Halloran & Dan Lonowski, will each give a short talk after our opening prayer.
